Preferred Citation: Loyola University Chicago. Women and Leadership Archives. Virginia Gaertner Broderick Papers. Box #, Folder #.

Provenance: Virginia Broderick donated her papers to the Women and Leadership Archives in her will. The materials were accessioned as WLA2004.11, WLA2004.12, WLA2004.30, WLA2004.45, WLA2006.18, and WLA2006.80.

Separations: A copy of the Skyscraper newspaper from 1940, 23 volumes of Quest, five volumes of The Mundelein College Review, four volumes of Clepsydra, and Agnes Griffin's English medal from 1939 were removed and added to the Mundelein College Record Collection at the Women and Leadership Archives. Documentation related to the "Twin Barn's and Silo's" prints by Edward Cathony was also added to the Mundelein College Record Collection, which contains the actual prints. One folder of materials from Holy Angels Academy from 1935 to 1948 that do not reference Virginia Gaertner Broderick were removed and sent to the BVM Archives in Dubuque, Iowa. A Wisconsin Retail Lumbermen's Association medal was removed and sent to the Wisconsin Retail Lumber Association Inc. A ribbon and pin from the Romohawk Carnival in Rome, New York, were sent to the Rome Historical Society. A collection of postcards collected by Virginia's mother were sent to the Curt Teich Postcard Archives at the Lake County Discovery Museum. Approximately 10 linear feet of duplicates and extraneous material were removed.

Biographical History

Virginia Joanne Gaertner was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on July 29, 1917, to George and Lois (Lamb) Gaertner. Her artistic talent was already apparent at a young age and she took classes at the Layton Art School in Milwaukee when only nine years old. She attended public schools in Milwaukee before deciding to attend Holy Angels Academy, a Catholic, all-girls high school, even though her family was not Catholic. Virginia converted to Catholicism in her junior year at the age of 16. At Holy Angels Academy, she continued to develop her artistry and also served as the editor of the school newspaper, The Aerial. She graduated at the top of her class in 1934 and earned a scholarship to attend Mundelein College in Chicago, a Catholic women's college. While at Mundelein, Virginia continued her artistic and literary success by serving as editor of Clepsydra and The Mundelein College Review and graduating magna cum laude with a bachelor of fine arts degree in 1939. Virginia received additional art training at the Art Institute of Chicago, studying under Samuel Giesbert, and at the Layton Art School, studying under Gerett Sinclair.

After graduating from Mundelein College, Virginia took a job as an artist for the Morrison Advertising Agency, where she was employed until she decided to focus solely on freelance work in 1942. On July 3, 1941, she married Robert C. Broderick, a prominent Catholic editor, encyclopedist, and author. Together they formed a dynamic husband-wife team, collaborating on works like the Catholic Encyclopedia, first published in 1976, with Robert supplying the text and Virginia the artwork. Both Robert and Virginia remained self-employed for the rest of their careers, conducting freelance work out of their home in Brookfield, Wisconsin.

Virginia developed her own artistic style, what she termed “cloisonism,” modeled off artists of the Impressionist period. Her style consists of clear, vibrant color in which some color forms are lined while others are not. She used a variety of mediums for her works, including inks, acrylics and oils, stone lithography, watercolors, pencils, and pastels. Her designs were converted into stained glass, mosaics, wood cuttings, and marble and bronze statues. Virginia’s works were also published in numerous formats, including newspapers, magazines, calendars, cards, books, missalette covers, church bulletins, and offertory envelopes, among others. She also designed numerous larger commissions for churches, hospitals, and other organizations ranging from statues to murals to stained glass windows. Her work can be found in approximately fifty churches in the United States, Canada, Italy, and Korea. She also illustrated fourteen of Robert’s books and co-wrote and illustrated her own book, How to Create Banners, published in 1978.

Throughout her career, she received numerous commendations and awards for her artwork and service to the Catholic Church. In 1958, she received the First Pauline Convert Award for apostolic church service in the field of Catholic art. She also received honors from her alma maters, earning the Mundelein College Silver Jubilee Award in 1964 and the Holy Angels Academy Jubilarian of the Year Award in 1998. Perhaps her most laudatory achievement, however, came in 1982 when both she and Robert were inducted into the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre, the highest honor awarded by the papacy on both clergy and lay people. Virginia continued to produce artwork until her death on February 6, 2004.

Scope and Content

The Virginia Gaertner Broderick Papers contain materials related to Virginia’s personal life as well as her prolific career as a prominent Catholic artist. The items in the collection chronicle Virginia’s early life and career, including her education in the Milwaukee Public School System, Holy Angels Academy, and Mundelein College. The bulk of the materials concern Virginia’s career as a professional artist and include drafts, originals, and prints of her artwork as well as exhibit materials and publications containing her work. The collection is divided into five series and the materials are arranged alphabetically within series, except in Oversize. Due to the various size constraints of the oversize items, the materials are arranged alphabetically within the four different sizes of the items.

Series 1: Biographical, 1909-2004, n.d., Boxes 1-5

This series consist of materials related to Virginia's personal life, particularly her early education and childhood. Items related to her husband Robert, her mother Lois, and her education in the Milwaukee Public Schools, Holy Angels Academy, and Mundelein College comprise the bulk of the series. Materials include correspondence, newspaper articles, student and alumnae documents, and student publications. Also included in this series are items related to Virginia and Robert's admission to the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre of Jerusalem.

Series 2: Professional, 1910-2004, n.d., Boxes 5-27

Materials in this series document Virginia's prolific career as an artist through the numerous publications that included her artwork. Virginia's art was found in books, newspaper, magazines, church bulletins, calendars, cards, stationery, and other mediums. These items as well as materials related to her larger commissions for statues, stained glass windows, and murals in churches and other buildings are included in this series. Virginia's original sketches and artwork, professional correspondence, and exhibit and auction materials all comprise this series.

Series 3: Photographs, 1901-1999, n.d., Boxes 27-29

This series contains photographs related to Virginia's life and career. These photographs include images of Virginia and her husband Robert as well as other members of her family. Most of the photographs concern Virginia's large commissions at churches and other organizations as well as images of individual pieces of her artwork and various exhibits in which she participated.

Series 4: Memorabilia, 1945-1998, n.d., Box 30

Several items from Virginia's childhood and career comprise this series. These materials include ribbons from art exhibits, religious medals, awards, and various items imprinted with Virginia's artwork.

Series 5: Oversized, 1934-1994, n.d., Boxes 31-41

This series contains all the oversize materials of the collection. The bulk of the materials are pieces of Virginia's original sketches and artwork, but it also includes newspapers that published her art, oversize photographs, prints and posters of her art, blueprints from her large commissions, and early sketchbooks. The materials are arranged alphabetically within the four different sizes of the items.
